The Minnesota IT Careers website (www.MnITCareers.org) serves Minnesotans interested in Information Technology careers. If you are a student, job seeker, or career changer, this website can help you research IT careers, learn about IT training options, and find Minnesota IT employers.

Visit the Minnesota IT Careers website at www.MnITCareers.org

The Minnesota IT Careers website is a part of ISEEK (www.iseek.org). Using ISEEK's wealth of data as a springboard, Minnesota IT Careers shines a light on opportunities within Information Technology. Plus, the site has substantial IT-specific features.

careers

The Minnesota IT Careers website has profiles of careers in four occupational groups: infrastructure and support; programming and development; information assurance, databases, and informatics; and management.

You'll find out if your interests match IT careers, and take quizzes to test your IT knowledge. You'll also find:

- What IT career fits me?
- Day-in-the-life spotlights
- IT military careers
- Self-employment in IT
- IT trends
- Industries with the most IT workers

education

The Minnesota IT Careers website gives you a wealth of data to achieve your education goals, including:

- 15+ IT majors
- 700+ IT programs
- Details on all the education and training options in your region

You'll get help preparing for an IT career by looking into classes to take in high school, and reading student testimonials from college IT program graduates. You'll learn about different ways to prepare for IT careers, including a look at the difference between certificates, diplomas, and degrees. If you're ready to get started or transition into the IT field, you'll find training information, including IT programs, certifications, how to transfer schools, and scholarship information.
